HATS OFF

H A T S

Those who were caught wearing hats are (clockwise from bottom left): Shaun Spadafora, Sean Van Praet, Matt Murphy, Cheryl Harrison, Nancy Cronin, Adam Brown and the Class of 1993.

The theme of any yearbook is defined to be a central idea or concept usually repeated throughout the yearbook in order to unify the message of the publication and give the book a personality. In other words, the theme is a statement that captures the essence and personality of the school during the designated year, and it is carried throughout the book by a unifying device such as a logo or catchy phrase.

Why then is our theme Hats Off; how does this carry throughout the book?

First, in September of 1989, we, the Class of 1993, became the first freshmen class to enter Melrose High School. We marveled the fact that we little freshmen were surrounded by so many giant upperclassmen; someday though, we knew that we would become "the big, bad seniors." Until then, we would have to adapt to our new situation at the drop of a hat and have fun.

However, in November of our freshmen year, we lost a fellow classmate, J. Michael Hughes, to whom this book is dedicated. As all students should show respect to their fellow classmates, hence the theme - Hats Off, and a special Hats off to Michael Hughes. A tree, which stands outside Melrose Middle School, was dedicated in his memory. This tree then became the logo of this book. A pen drawing of it was modified to become a hat rack. As the book goes on, the rack becomes filled with more and more hats until the rack is full. At the end of the book, we, the graduating class, put our caps back on and are ready to move on, putting the memories of our experiences here at M.H.S. on hold and aiming to acquire new hats in the years to come.

Near the end of our freshmen year, one member of our class threw his hat over the balcony; from that day forth, the administration and the school committee began a long-term developmental process of instituting a new rule or rather book of rules for the students of Melrose High School. Although these rules were not complete and enforced until our senior year, we were still among the first to experience this operation.

The disciplinary code book has many written rules; however, the rule that was the hardest for the students to digest was the NO HATS ALLOWED IN SCHOOL rule. Students should have respect for their school. Therefore, the no hats rule along with the other written rules contributes to the theme Hats Off.

As sophomores, we were the first class to start the tradition of a Sophomore Field Day. So, take your hats off of the Class of 1993 for a well planned and memorable event.

The Class of 1993 will graduate as a unique class. We were the first freshmen class to become a part of M.H.S.; we were the first to instigate a movement of reform for the better; we were the first to start a particular tradition. In conclusion, Hats off to M.H.S. and the Class of 1993!

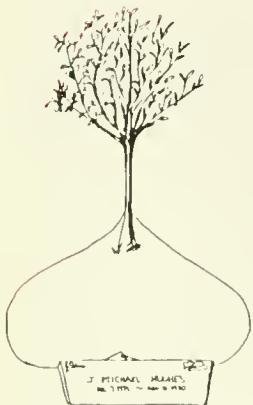

WE, THE CLASS OF 1993,
DEDICATE THIS BOOK TO
J. MICHAEL HUGHES.

December 7, 1974

November 11, 1990

Michael was a very special person with many gifts which he shared with all of us.

He was an imp. He loved to laugh, to tease, to joke. At Horace Mann Elementary School, he was known as the class clown.

He was an intelligent, competitive, enthusiastic and excellent student, whose vision was to succeed in life. It was at Melrose Junior High School, now a middle school, that Michael is best remembered. He was successful: although he missed half of the seventh grade, he returned to eighth grade in full force; he received all A's in all honors courses. He was popular: he was perhaps the first student to be elected class officer in absentia. Also, he thoroughly enjoyed the fact that he was the only student allowed to wear a hat in school; he had a different one for every day of the week.

He was the best all-around. Michael was not only an academic scholar but also an athletic superstar. He loved to ski, to swim, to play baseball, soccer, basketball, football, and tennis. After taking ill, he developed a love for golf and fishing.

He was a caring and compassionate young man. As ill as Michael was from his leukemia, his concerns were always for his family; he worried about how they were bearing the burden of his disease and treatment.

He was a fighter, never a quitter. He succeeded in life by setting an example of determination and courage toward life, illness, and death. His optimistic attitude was an inspiration to us all. Michael's love of life and people was manifested in his smile which became his trademark.

Friends and family of Michael presented a tree and a plaque in his memory to the Melrose Public Schools. This tree will grow and be enjoyed by generations of students to come; this plaque will tell them that there once was a very special young man who made a difference in the lives of all who knew him.

It is truly amazing how Michael, in his short time with us, touched the lives of everyone who knew him with happiness. Each of us has special, treasured memories of this special person. He has left a legacy of love, love of life and people, joy and above all, courage.

Our hearts go out to the Hughes family for their loss, and we hope that this dedication will be a happy reminder of times past. He will live in mind and heart forever with the class of 1993.

Hats off to you, Michael . . .

STUDENT LIFE

Student Life . . . What does it mean to you?

Student life does not just mean what goes on in school, yet it is our proms, our dances, and our Field Day. No one will forget that first prom, nor barbecuing at the Knoll! It is what we wear, what music we listen to, and even our plans for the future. It is these lasting impressions that remain with us.

Student Life does not end when you leave the halls of Melrose High School everyday. That is when it begins.

HATS OFF

To me anyways, hats have always seemed to be a male phenomenon. The Ugly Hat takes its place beside "guy things", like burping contests.

You see, guys bond with their hats. If a guy wears a hat, and has a good time that night-BANG! it is on his head until it rots away. Have you ever seen anybody's favorite hat? Chances are it's old, tattered, ugly as sin, and the smell . . . oh dear. The male scalp tends to sweat- a lot. A baseball hat, due to the nature of the fabric, will absorb anywhere between 16 oz. and 32 gallons of sweat before spontaneous combustion occurs.

Hat-bonding has happened to all of us at one time or another I'm sure. I once had a hat that had been splattered with paint so many times that it looked like a seagull had taken a shine to me. And even though it provoked laughter among the unenlightened, I wore that hat proudly, because I had a different amusing anecdote for every drop of paint.

Then I lost it. Have you ever seen a guy who lost his hat? Not a pretty sight, eh? The withdrawal symptoms may last anywhere from one week to fifty-two years. (I am still mourning a hat that I lost roughly seventeen months ago.) Symptoms include: rapid mood swings, the feeling of missing a body part, and the victim will speak of his hat at least twice per conversation. Not fun.

I don't really know about women and hats, and I hope that I haven't been one-sided. But I can only tell you from experience that a guy and his ugly hat share a bond at least as deep as the mother and her child. Well . . . maybe I'm exaggerated a little, but not much.

Top right: Tipping his hat to the efforts of LOG '93 editors and staff is Tim Brown.

Right: "As long as we're outside with our hats," informs Enzo Grimmo, "we're in the clear." With him stands R. Pescatore, N. Cronin, E. Grimmo, J. Maietta, M. Wilson, M. Jaroszewski, S. Potamis, A. Brown, P. Bedell, J. Madden, D. Catanzaro, J. Webb, and R. Randall.

THE BREAKFAST CLUB

Paul Rossi, Sean Burns, Shaun Spadafora, and Matt Jaroszewski protest the new Session Hall. (Four tardies and you spend from 7:00 to 7:45 A.M. in the Resource Center).

A Typical Morning

Late again, she yanked the comb through her hair, pulling out some at the same time. Briskly rubbing a towel over her head (thereby reversing the effects of the comb), she decided what to wear, all the while belittling herself for not planning it out the night before.

Two changes of clothes later, she raced down the stairs and frantically looked for anything edible. The easiest thing she could find was "Carnation Instant Breakfast" and she gulped it down. Deciding that there was no time to make a lunch, she searched her coat pockets for money. Finding the money ended up taking just as long as making a sandwich would have. Sighing over the unfairness of it all, she darted out the door.

Running down the hill, she prayed that someone she knew would drive by and offer her a ride, but she did not count on it. That never happened when she really needed one.

Halfway to school, she slowed down and started walking. The street was spookily deserted, and after Mr. McClory passed her she knew she was REALLY late. Her lucky friends with rides must already be at school so there was no hope for her. She started running again, cursing her shoes for not being sneakers and wincing from the pain in her ankles.

Eight and a half minutes after leaving her house, a new record, she skidded to a halt at her homeroom door, red-faced and out of breath. With an aura of victory hanging over her, she congratulated herself for making it on time.

by Maureen Sheehan

All right, troops, let's go, you are now entering the 92-93 school year at Melrose High. Gee, it looks a little crowded this year. I guess there aren't any more people; it's just that they're all here on time. Everyone looks different, new hair cut? No, no hats. The mood is different. Did everyone break up? What's this, Oh great, they're handing out a new rule booklet. Let's take a look. Of course, I was wrong. Not everyone broke up. It's just that there are no more P.D.A.'s (Public Displays of Affection) in the hallway. Well, now I have to go to the bathroom. Is this pass for real? Hey, what's that new scent in the bathrooms? Oh, fresh air, no more smoking on school grounds. You learn something new everyday. I guess we learned enough to last the rest of the year.

The Night of Our Lives

Okay, it's now 5:00 PM on Prom Night. The limo will be arriving in half an hour. No problem. I'm not panicking. I refuse to panic.

Double check time now. Hair-perfect. Wait, what's that? One hair out of place-YANK!- not any more. Make-up-flawless. I still can't believe my luck- the Prom is here, but even so, no last minute zits have erupted on my face. Everything is just perfect. All that's left is to put on the dress.

Out comes the gown from under the safety of its plastic bag, and in I step. All that's left is to zip it up, and I'll be ready for the night of my life.

Righ
with Grim
him
nin,
Wilso
mis,
den,
Rand
AAARGH! I can't believe it! Two lousy inches from the top, the zipper stops cold. Maybe it's stuck. Let's see, nope, nothing caught in front or in back. Maybe if I exhale, then try while holding my breath. Yeah, that should do it. I'll just make my ribcage as small as I can, then zip it quickly. No, no luck there either. Okay, now it's time to try the last resort.

"MOM!!"

So finally, with me lying on the bed Scarlett O'Hara style, Mom manages to get the dress zipped up. One last yank upwards on the zipper, and I'm teetering off down the stairs in my new high heels. Not a moment too soon, I open the door to greet the limo-ful of friends that has just arrived. After several hundred photographs, we're all finally off to join the biggest party of the year.

by Meghan Jendrysik

Thanks to the Sombrero Boys Justin Maietta, Steve Potamis, Nate Bell, Jason Webb

WINTER WONDERLAND

Mrs. Scialdoni and Mr. DiSanto, our class advisors who make all our events possible, stand together for a picture.

Trying to get the class of 93 into the Holiday spirit, Kari Jackson, Paul Fabiano, Matt Wilson and Stacey Herrick sing old-time favorite Christmas Carols.

Randall Guillaome teaches Keith Isles the latest dance steps.

O what a night! The first thought that comes to mind when reminiscing about the Winterball. The dance, held at Memorial Hall, was a shimmering success. An initiative was taken by the Student government to move the ball to Memorial Hall. This location created an atmosphere that kept seniors dancing all night.

Also, seniors were entertained by the talents of both Tommyette Phillips and Bill Eldringhoff. Tommyette beautifully sang a popular song by En Vogue that made everyone wish they had such a talent. Bill was stunning while at the piano playing Piano Man. Above all, the dance was another event of remembrance for the class of 93.

John Garipay grabs Joel McLeod for a snapshot.

Sick with amazement at Tommyette's singing talents, Erin Ferrick, Kim Morphew, Erin Sierak, Missy Hrding and Sara Blackwell gaze up at the stage.

BONNETS, BEANIES & BABIES

Below: Kari Jackson prepares to make a wish.

Right: Sean Burns: The happiest kid "going".

Bottom Center: Jay-Jay Westbrook says O'Tay!

Bottom Right: Julia Tutela is prepared to take the place of the Copper-tone Baby.

Middle: Nate Bell has a hard time finding his mouth.

Middle Right: "If only I lived in Texas," thinks Jill Chadsey.

Middle Bottom: Megan O'Leary is all dressed up with nowhere to go.

PROFILES

This is it. This is the part of the yearbook that makes our high school years memorable. Our senior profiles highlight our fondest memories, achievements and friends. Our profiles reflect our characters and personalities; and maybe even our dreams. This is where we lift up our hats and show each other what we have made of the past four years. We register our crazy times at parties, our special memories with girlfriends or boyfriends, and of course, our appreciation and thanks to our parents. Moreover, this is the one part of the yearbook that each person has his own section to shine and make his impression on the Class of '93. So here we go, seniors, and let's show what we've got by

FACULTY

Teaching is the most significant profession in our society and yet it is the most unrecognized. These dedicated people educate our lives from the first day of kindergarten. Teachers not only teach us academics, they also teach us things that enable us to understand society, each other, and life. However, their dedication runs beyond school, for they coach, advise and direct us in sports, clubs and, our future. Because we recognize that it is our teachers who acknowledge that the welfare of society relies on us, the students, we dedicate this section solely to the faculty of Melrose High. We thank you faculty for adding

ANOTHER FEATHER IN OUR CAP!

ADMINISTRATION

Mr. Claude Croston - Head principal

Mr. Jim Frontero
Assistant Principal (Freshman and Sophomore)

Mr. Tim Hurley
Assistant Principal (Junior and Senior)

Faculty

It is a privilege for me to be able to extend my best wishes to the class of 1993, the first class to have had four full years at Melrose High School. As you advanced through our schools - - some of you for a total of thirteen years - - a remarkable number of significant events occurred locally and beyond. The passage of Proposition 2-1/2, the blizzard of 1978 (most of you were three), the closing of the Franklin School, the Gulf War, Bill Buckner's error, and the dismantling of the Berlin Wall are but a few.

It is an exciting and yet challenging world that you face as you leave Melrose High School. You have received a great deal of help and support from your parents, friends, school, and the full community of Melrose. You have contributed a great deal to our schools and city as a group and as individuals.

It has been a great honor to have known many of you personally. I have great faith in your potential and your ability to care for others, and I look forward to many of you making a difference in the changing world that lies ahead.

David P. Driscoll
Superintendent of schools.

SPORTS

High school is comprised of many special memories, and among these memories are the times we spend engaging in sports. At Melrose High School, sports play an important part in the lives of many students. While some participate as players, others participate as fans.

Starting in the fall, when everyone piles into the stands for Friday night football games, it becomes evident that we at MHS have a great sense of pride in our teams. From football to tennis, and baseball to track, students have an abundance of sports to choose from. Each sport draws its own crowd and each crowd creates a number of special memories.

This year's highlights include the pep rally, at which the girls at MHS took a stand, the first night soccer game in the history of MHS, the Thanksgiving Day Mud Bowl, and many more. With exceptional performances by the football, volleyball, girl's soccer, and both boy's and girl's basketball teams, Melrose proved to be among the best in the Middlesex League, and definitely deserves

Melrose High Golf On The Rebound

“Fore . . .” In other words, watch out for oncoming balls hit by Melrose High School's next generation of promising golfers.

Although this was a rebuilding season for the former league champs, the team showed definite promise for the future. Of the nine games played by the golf team, they only won two, but, team spirit was never lost. They won their season opener against Burlington with a score of  $7\frac{1}{2}$  to  $4\frac{1}{2}$  and later defeated Belmont 11 to 1.

Ryan Doherty (94) and Steve Healey (95) played competitively this season for the number one spot on the team. The most improved player award should definitely go to Nick Alfano (94) who, together with Doherty and Ryan, will be an important part of next year's team.

The only senior on this season's team was Captain Matt Wilson, who would like to thank Coach McDermod and wish good luck to next year's team.

Team memories: 6-packs (of tacos) at Taco Bell, Burger King runs, clubs in the trees and more clubs in the trees.

FIELD OF DREAMS

MHS Turns Dreams Into Reality.

Team speed, aggressiveness, and unity are what led this year's Field Hockey team to a successful season. Prior to the 1992 season, the Melrose High School Field Hockey team had not been able to achieve a winning season since 1986. This year's youthful team was lead by four seniors: co-captains Stacey Herrick and Becky Anderson, Sandy Pavao and Kristen Lord, who all scored a goal in the season finale defeat of league rival Wakefield.

With the graduation of just four players, and the return of such strong athletes as League All-Star/top scorer Heidi Stevenson (95), Head Coach Jan Johnston is very optimistic about next year's season. As far as this past season is concerned, nothing could have gone any better.

The team will always remember such highlights as defeating undefeated Woburn (4-2) in Tanner Country, as well as all of the loud bus rides.

MHS Boys Pull Together As A Team

“It was the best of times,

“It was the best of times, it was the worst of times.” This years boys soccer team can relate well with what Charles Dickens once wrote. The season started off with a breathtaking shutout (8-0) against Watertown, filling the team with hopeful aspirations for a winning season. Captains Chris Synnott, Richie Garofalo, and Eric Young (94), along with Keith Baldi, Nate Bell, and Paul Cunningham remained strong throughout the entire season. The final scores were always close, but close was not enough to achieve the victories which the team was looking for. After a series of disappointments, the plays began to fall back into place. Surrounded by a roaring crowd of loyal fans, the team played their first night soccer game in the history of MHS. It was clear to everyone that the team was pumped up, and it came as no surprise when they once again left Watertown in the dust. Dishing out a 3-0 shutout, Richie Garofalo, Jamie McManus (94), and Eric Young (94), all made tremendous goals.

The season was one of many ups and downs, however, with an abundance of effort and spirit, the boys pulled together as a team, and continued to give each game their best.

MHS Girls Are Untouchable

Just one point would have made the difference in qualifying for this year's state tournament. The Melrose High School's girls soccer team had an incredible season and ended in high standing (7-5-4).

With the help of Tri-captains Melissa Cuppennell, Stephanie Vadala and Michele Hynds, along with Goalie Renee Federico (94), Becky Hale (94), Wendy Schreiber (95), Dara Tebo (94), Kristin Burns (94), and many other talented players, the Red Raider girls had a very successful season. With a tie (1-1) against Winchester, former League Champions, the season got off to a great start. The team came alive to beat Woburn, and then defeated them for a second time at the girl's first night game in Melrose.

It was really disappointing when it came time for the tournament, and Melrose was only one point behind, however, ending with a winning season should alone bring the team great pride. The team will never forget such memories as their talks with Winnie, the "Green Machine," and tofu parties.

RETURN OF THE RAIDERS

MHS Surprise Middlesex League

One, two, three . . . ONE!

One, two, three . . . TWO! One, two, three . . . THREE! The preseason in preparation for the 1992 Melrose High School football season, nobody except for the Red Raiders themselves, could have ever imagined that they would achieve all the things that they did. Indeed, even Head Coach Bruce Macpherson had his doubts, but these were put out of mind when his team confidently swept through their first four games. Led by team tri-captains John McCracken, Kevin Waden and Eric Sullivan, combined with fine individual performances from Dave Catanzaro, Matt Dancewicz, Keith Isles, Glenn Perduyn, Steve Potamis, Charlie Tedeschi, Steve Texeira, Brian Fogarty (94), Rich Harrison (94), Jason McGrath (94), Dustin Reid (94) and Dave Blanchard (95), Melrose found themselves sitting atop the Middlesex League.

The second half of the season proved to be difficult, but Melrose hit the challenge head on. Their defeat of Stoneham was the highlight of the season and by the end of Turkey Day, Melrose was the Middlesex League runner-up, second only to undefeated Reading (10-0), whose splendid season earned them the Middlesex League title along with a superbowl appearance.

Top: Yes indeed, Coach Bruce MacPherson's prayers were answered. His Red Raiders finished the season as Middlesex League runners-up. Football Cheerleaders Voice Their Support

Give a hand for the Melrose High School football cheerleaders!

Their team spirit and school pride was extraordinary this season. According to co-captain, Teri DelRossi, "It was a fun season. Everyone was closer and got along." The team would like to thank the football players for being equally supportive of them. They would also like to give a hand out to Mrs. Shea. "She is not only our coach, but also our friend and a leader," agrees co-captain Kerri Todisco.

GOT THE SPIRIT?

Soccer Cheerleaders Motion For Success

Helping to maintain team spirit, the cheerleaders were always there with words of support for this year's soccer team. Many fond memories of the season will never be forgotten. Erin's famous Speak + Spell and her hilarious impressions, the "you say it's your birthday" dance, "Can Rach shake it?" and Nancy and Rose's little fights kept the cheerleaders laughing through the entire season. Kari was thrilled everytime they did their beloved cheer "ACTION" and fun times included toilet papering and cleaning up five minutes later, the first soccer brunch at Nancy's house, and the day they became flying chickens. GOOD LUCK E.S., R.P., M.S., M.M., M.S., C.R., C.O., K.S., AND TO OUR FAVORITE GOALIE.

Girls Volleyball - The Pride Of MHS

“The Revenge Factor” —

how sweet it is to come back a year later and beat the team which you lost to in last year's state tournament. “The Revenge Factor” is what this year's volleyball team experienced when they defeated Arlington at midseason. Even after getting off to a successful start, this one game really got the team “pumped up.” Under the leadership of Co-captains Jenn Guiry and Michele Cirrone, this year's team had yet another championship season.

With a strong frontline and a series of consistent serves, Melrose lost only several games and came out right on top. Christina Cirrone (95) proved to be a very strong setter and is looked upon to be an important part of next year's team.

Losing the last two games of the season, the team still over-qualified for the state tournament. With a tremendous amount of team effort, the team won their first game against Arlington Catholic, but lost to North Quincy in the second game. Overall, the team had a spectacular season and they were proud that they could even compete with a team of such high standing as North Quincy.

CATCHING UP

Girls Cross Country Get Results

Effort, determination and pride— this is what this year's girls cross country team was all about. Despite their 2-7 record, the team felt that overall, it was a great season. Captain Christine Maffeo, Fritha Burns, Susan MacLeod (95), Tricia (96) and Shana Onigman (96) were among the key runners this season who helped lead the way for the Raiders.

This year the team both began and finished with a win, an improvement over last year's 0-9 performance. Once again, injuries took their toll on the team, with Fritha Burns and Elizabeth Joyce (94) unable to run at this year's state meet with teammates Timna Onigman (94), MacLeod (95), Shana Onigman (96) and Jessiea Mason (96). Tricia Cox (96) proved to be "the one to watch" for next season. MacLeod (95) excelled even more this year, setting a record at Mount Hood, the longest course in the league.

Credit for the team's success is deserved by Coach Kevin Allison, who gave an abundance of support and guidance. The team has grown close in a short amount of time and is very optimistic about next season.

Birthday parties in the locker room, "positive affirmations," breakfast at Christine's and Saturday morning runs are among the many fond memories which the team will share. Who can ever forget, "It's Friday, I'm in Love."

“Tag-Team Mud Wrestling?”

Leave it to this year's boys cross country team to invent this one.

With the graduation of many experienced runners last year, the MHS boys cross country team was not expecting to do as well as they did this season. Under the leadership of tri-captains Steve Beardsley, Pat Lynch and Bryan Walsh, the team proved that Melrose still had some fight left in them. When asked about their season, Beardsley replied, “it shows what happens when you want to apply yourself.”

The accomplishment of this year's team was not a one man job. It took total team effort combined with a lot of determination. Along with Beardsley, Lynch and Walsh, Greg Huntley (94), George and Frank Lee (94), Jim O'Malley (95) and Ryan Kerr (95) made substantial contributions. Lynch considers the season highlight to be “when we realized we were as good as last year's team.” Compared to the scores of last year's team, this year's team was in fact just as talented and hopes to become even better in the seasons to come. The team has always had the potential for greatness.

The team worked hard, and had time to have a little fun and create a lot of memories. Everyone will always remember tag-team mud wrestling in the woods near Grimsby's as well as the good times shared by all.

MHS Remains Undefeated

“A tough adjustment,” is what Captain John Garipay said the transition from Coach Grant to Coach Whitworth was. Even with this change, the Raiders managed to pull off their best season ever, ending successfully, and more importantly, undefeated.

As usual Melrose closed out the season with the Middlesex League meet which they went on to win by a tremendous 108 points over second place reading. Garipay, juniors Stan Doerr, Sean Rahilly, Paul Kroon, Andy Burnham, sophomores Chris Kroon and Jason Shamberger along with freshmen Henry Turner and Mark Goodhue contributed to this overwhelming victory. This was a true display of the team’s experience and potential.

The team’s outstanding success has set high standards for next year’s team. The team will never forget Andy’s duck tape, “Stan the horizontal man,” coach’s house, and Kowloon.

TAKING THE PLUNGE

Girls Swim Toward Victory

Melrose High School's "bathing beauties"

dove into action this season with a record of 2-6. Although they came in last in the league, their losses were respectable. For example, they were down to the last relay in their meet against Woburn. This year's swimmers proved with their positive attitudes that winning is not the only thing.

The team gained many new and promising swimmers this season. Sarah Strangi (96) was a powerful addition to this determined team, as well as Ann Zagarella (96) and Erica Farrell (96). Next year's team is sure to shine.

The team unanimously agrees the most rewarding meet was against Wakefield. Not only did they successfully defeat a team they had lost to last year, but, Co-captain Erin Dooley beat the coach's daughter in the individual medley. Even the coach took a swim when he was thrown into the pool by the team.

Co-captains Erin Dooley and Missy Harding would like to thank Lauren, Al, Darcy and Rachelle for decorating the lockers and wish the team luck next season.

Team memories: League meet headaches LJS, Peach is back, ED, Big Al, Little Peach, pasta parties, TPing wrong house!, noise game- "Are we doing this right?"

Fans And Players Provide Winning Punch

“One, we are the Raiders.

Two, we can not hear you. Three, a little bit louder. More, more, more!” Little was expected from this year’s boy’s Varsity Basketball team, but apparently they believed otherwise. Nobody, not even Head Coach Nick Papas could have accounted for the heart, determination, and desire which led this TEAM to a spectacular season. The word “team,” became very important to this group of young men. There were no superstars, no individuals who “did it all,” rather one unit who enjoyed playing the game together.

There was something else about this team that was clearly seen; something which nobody could have taught them. It was team chemistry — the single most important factor which was the reason for this team’s success.

Next year’s team looks forward to the same type of season and Coach Papas will be happy to return defensive wiz Brian Fogarty (94), scoring guard Eric Young (94), and Mr. Versatility, Steven Anthes (94).

MHS Girls Reach The Top

Led by tri-captains

Becky Anderson, Michele Cirrone, and Jenn Guiry, the MHS Lady Raiders proved that they still had what it takes to be successful under the direction of Head Coach Matt Gianatassio.

The most memorable games of the season include the game at Melrose against Belmont, when the team, officials, and all the loyal fans had to be moved to the Marcoux gym due to a slick floor which continued to trip up the opponent. Also never to be forgotten is the home game against Wakefield, probably the toughest team in the league. Everyone sitting in the stands that night knew that the game belonged to Melrose, and when the indecisive referee reclaims his call on a foul, the fans went wild. The disappointment was felt not only by the team, but also by the many spectators.

This year's team broke an all time record of number of wins in the history of Girls Basketball at MHS. With players such as Guiry, Anderson, Cirrone, Rene Federico (94), Gina Luciano (95), and Adrienne Beshong (94), this year's Lady Raiders definitely made up the MHS Dream Team.

MHS Pushes Opponents To Limit

With the graduation of last year's key players, it was obvious that the 1992-93 Melrose High Hockey team would have to pick up a lot of slack in order to be a competitive team in the always tough Middlesex League. As the season began it was evident that this team was not overflowing with raw talent, however, first year coach Steve Rolli managed to bring a positive attitude to this somewhat inexperienced team. They wanted to play and they wanted to win.

Senior Captain Kevin Waden, one of Melrose's most prominent athletes, led a determined group of young men, whose work ethic was "second to none." On route to a 6-12-2 record, season highlights include a tie with the Middlesex League powerhouse, Reading.

Seniors included Kevin Waden, Matt Bramer, Dan Cronin, Steve Dillon, Joe Lepore, Derek McQuillan, and Matt Wilson. Fine nightly performances were also displayed by Junior stand-out and next year's "go-to man," Mike Ciulla.

MHS Boys Show To Be Up And Coming

"A team with a goal"

that's what the 1992-93 Melrose High Wrestling team began the season with. Their goal was to be competitive in each and every meet; to do the best job possible. Thanks to the encouragement of Head Coach Frank Smith and Assistant Coach John Puleo, along with the leadership of co-captains Charlie Tedeschi and Matthew Murphy, this goal became a reality. Melrose finished up the season with a 3-4 record, however, at the Middlesex League Tournament, when it came time to shine, Melrose responded. Led by first place performances of Charlie Tedeschi, Pat Greely and Andy Burns, Melrose took a well deserved third place finish. Tedeschi and Greely also finished the season as Division I Central Champions.

Seniors Phil Bedell, John McClafferty and Rob Tulipani also had spectacular individual seasons and each of them agree that the future holds only the best for MHS wrestling. A strong nucleus of wrestlers including Greely, Andy Burns and Scott Sullivan will return next season for what hopes to be an extremely successful year.

We Are The Champions

Giving it the best

that they got, the Lady Raiders made Melrose High School proud this season. With a record of 6-0, the team remained undefeated until they met up with their rivals from Stoneham and competed for the Middlesex League Title. Although they lost to the Stoneham Spartans, it was an unbelievably close meet. The team's performance proved that they were just as deserving of the league title, which they have respectively held three times during the last five years.

Throughout the season, co-captain Cara Catanzano, an all-around gymnast, remained dependable and consistant. During their second meet against Belmont, the team lost a key performer, co-captain Kerri Todisco, to a knee injury. Other strong performers and hopefuls for next year are Jennifer Basteri (96) and Leigha Zedros (96). Another successful season can be foreseen in the future of the Melrose High School's gymnastic team, as well as another league title.

The most memorable meet of the season took place at Wakefield, where the boys were disqualified in the relay and the girls lost by a mere three points. At the end of a successful season, many of the team's members, including Beardsley, Lynch, O'Malley (95), Huntley (94), Jason McGrath (94), and Susan Thibeault, went on to participate at the State Meet.

Around The Bases With MHS

Swing batta, batta, batta - SWEEEEEEING BATTA!

Coming off a difficult season last year (4-14 in the league, 4-16 overall), the Melrose High Varsity baseball team looked to "turn the tides" in 1992. Led by Coach John Brickley, captain Craig Muse (92), and a solid nucleus of six other returning varsity members, they did just that. Melrose opened the season by winning two of their first three ball games and by years end had acquired a very impressive mark of 9-9. "Most importantly, it was a rebound from last year. Things are looking up for next year," remarked the team optimist, Joe Meehan (92).

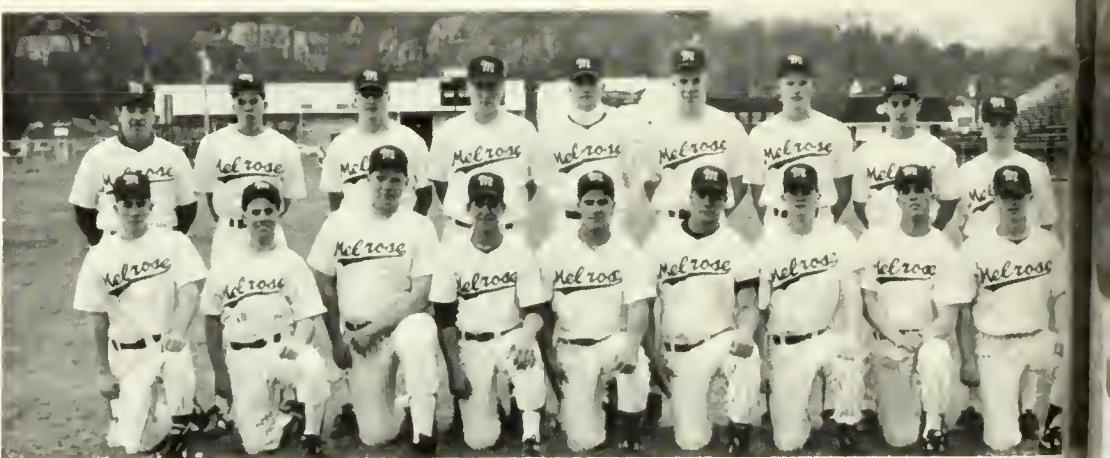

Thanks to the heroics of such players as third baseman, Andy Lennon (92), pitcher/short-stop, Joe Meehan (92), and pitcher, Chris Buttiner, each of whom were named to the Middlesex League All-Star team, Melrose High School stormed the league as one of its most competitive teams. Season highlights included a victory, over Division II state semi-finalist, Burlington, and two victories over Division II state finalist, Belmont. The team's hard work and dedication truly paid off this season.

MHS Girls Express Themselves

"A phenomenal season," said coach Don MacLeod about the performance of the MHS softball team, led by tri-captains, Melanie Crawford (92), Deanna Gignac (92) and Michelle Tura (92). Aiding Melrose in their success was Crawford's exceptional pitching, along with outstanding hitting by Jen Winslow and Dara Tebo. Defeating Lexington was an indication of how much the team had improved since the previous year, as well as reflecting the team's potential for future seasons.

Qualifying for the state tournament, their second since 1985, the Raiders ended the season with a record of 13-7. Crawford explains, "It was really exciting just being there." Unfortunately, the team lost their first game.

Melrose showed tremendous effort and co-operation this year. It all paid off when Michelle Tura (92), Melanie Crawford (92), and Jen Winslow were all named All-Stars.

Girls Tennis Are The Queens Of The Club

Triumphantly, the girls

tennis team soared to the top-half of the league ladder this season. For the first time in ten years, Melrose is one of the top five teams in the Middlesex League. Their strong team spirit and steady serves helped to maintain their confidence and kept them constantly "in the swing of things."

First singles, Kristen Downing (92), remained undefeated throughout the entire season. After a grueling three hour match, second doubles player and co-captain, Wendy Nealon (92), left her Reading opponent with something valid to complain about. Also remaining strong was Alison Roselli (92), who still played a great season despite losing her doubles partner, Karen Driscoll (92), due to a mid-season injury. Contributing to the success of the season were doubles Stephanie Roehe (92) and Tara Cargill (96), as well as Michele Larkin (92) and Kerri Todisco.

Due to the fantastic team spirit and the strong leadership of co-captains, Stephanie Roehe and Wendy Nealon, the team enjoyed a very fulfilling season. Coach, Mr. Coughlin, agreed that it was "a great season. They were the best group of people I ever had the pleasure to work with."

KINGS OF THE COURT

MHS Boys Are Aces In Our Eyes

“It’s not whether you win or lose it’s how you play the game.” This was a motto to live by for the 1992 boy’s tennis team. Although they played their hardest in every match, they always seemed to come up short in the end. Team captain, Dominic Rinaldi (92), led the team to a 3-10 record in first singles, and showed stellar leadership. Second singles, Nate Brodeur (92) and the excellent doubles combination of Brian Boyale (92) and Jesse Juliano (92), contributed to a very competitive season.

Highlighting the season was a near victory over League Champions, Winchester, which came down to the final match. The season was definitely one of many ups and downs, however, team spirit created a year of fun memories. Adding to the varsity team were third singles, Brian Brinley (94), second doubles Charles Russel (94) and Brian Carroll (95), Marty Cassavoy, Vladamir Gitterman and John McClafferty.

While the year might not be remembered for the team record, none of the players will ever forget the day Mike Ray (94) was almost left stranded in Lexington, or when John McClafferty got lost on route 128 with half the team on the way to the annual post-season party.

SUCCESS ON THE RUN

MHS Breaks The Record Of A Decade

Great form, speed, endurance and positive thinking all played a part in this year's success. While giving their best efforts as individuals, as well as a team, the boys track team experienced their first winning season in two decades. When the season first started, no one envisioned a successful season, such that many records would be surpassed. Matt Jaroszewski was among those on the team to demonstrate superior talent. Displaying one of the best records to date, he cleared 11' in the pole vault. Also filling the team with a sense of pride, Justin Maietta flew through the air, marking 21' 11 1/2" in the long jump, scoring the highest in the Middlesex League.

On the track, all of the runners gave their personal best, bringing the team to a dynamic finish. Two runners, Captain Bill Porter (92) and Ben Pease (92), went on to the all-state meet, where Porter finished eighth in the mile and second in all of Eastern Massachusetts.

With the many great accomplishments, MHS will enjoy the memories of a very successful season.

ON THE RIGHT TRACK

MHS Girls Running In The Right Direction

“If at first you don’t succeed, try, try again.” This year’s girls track team had a season full of extremely close scores. Wendy Schreiber (95), confesses “our scores were always close but we just couldn’t seem to pull through all the way.” The team started off well, losing by only five points to Middlesex League “powerhouse” Lexington.

Becky Hale carried the team through many meets with her unbelievable strength in 100M hurdles. After winning her event at almost every meet, she finished the season as a Middlesex League all-star. Susan MacLeod and Melissa Sherman spent a somewhat grueling season running the mile, one of the longest races. Also showing great strides on the track was Sandy Pavao, tackling the 880. On the field, Amie Bonano threw the shot put 31' 3", the teams highest score.

Even with the 1-8 record, the team still continued to always do their best. Mr. Porter’s humor and determination will long be remembered for carrying the team throughout the season!

Far Right: With the closest competitor a long way back, Wendy Schreiber is assured a victory.

Right: “Just one more hurdle to go,” thinks Johanna Szarkowski as she prepares for the finish line.

Top: Becky Hale makes one out of many great strides as she confidently clears the hurdle.

GIRLS TRACK

“ We may not have won, but we had great individual performance and a lot of fun. ”

- Lisa Hiland

ORGANIZATIONS

Melrose High School has a wide variety of clubs and organizations for its students to get involved in. Each is as unique as the people that join them. Some clubs have had effective results such as Project Bread, Blood Mobile and the Environmental Club by helping the community. Also, this year the Young Republicans have been challenged by the Young Democrats. Other clubs have been working together successfully to make these high school years more memorable. However, it is the dedication of the students and advisors that make the clubs such a successful part of Melrose High.

Glancing down at his fingers, Mike Lapini mumbles quietly to himself, "ASDFG HJKL; ASDFG HJKL;" then quickly looks away and pretends he had his eyes on the paper the whole time.

Sue O'Neill, Steph Kelley, and Cindy Bridgeford prove what good friends they really are.

Sam Calef and Brian Twist are not afraid to let the world know they care.

Jen Lansky shows off her hairdo and Lucia Delgrossio shows off her friend at the Sophomore Valentine's Day dance. All that attended the dance, which featured a slide show of the semi from the year before, had a great time.

Atitya Wilson and Yma Fonfield, ignoring the rule prohibiting it, break down and show affection for each other in the Resource Center.

The Grim Reaper, opting for the comfort of sweats over the formality of his usual attire, pays a visit to MHS and attempts to claim another. Fortunately, Patricia Habbbury wrested herself from the grip of Death and is now leading a normal life.

John Tamasi, using only the powers of his mind, attempts to lift the pencil off the table.

After a hard day at school, Katie Durant can't wait to get home and relax, put her feet up, and remove that pesky tree growing out of her head.

Moments before they are identified in a police line-up, Mike Ciulla and Yvonne O'Callaghan smile assuredly, putting complete faith in the fact that their innocent faces will get them off.

Maureen Sheehan takes out her tuba and for the one thousandth time answers positively to the question "Isn't that heavy?" Maureen decided on the tuba freshman year, ruling out lighter instruments such as the piccolo.

Nicole Amerault happily spends her study hall as a fixture in the middle of the Resource Center, giving directions to any wandering lost souls.

Carolyn Cassavoy, already dressed in proper concert attire, diligently rehearses her music for the upcoming concert.

Rene Federico pauses a moment before class to define exactly how much homework she had the night before. It's kind of like the fish that got away, isn't it, Rene?

Allyson Casey rolls her eyes and groans inwardly when she realizes that Macbeth is not the last she'll see of Shakespeare. Next year, she, too, will be able to join those who can truthfully say they have read Hamlet.

Dave Sutton sits in the cooking room and wonders why more men don't take home economics. After all, some of the world's greatest chefs are men.

Gina Luciano, anxious to get home and find her feet, pauses to smile at the birdie.

Susan Thibault pounds her way toward the finish line, all her energies focused on timing the hurdles just right.

THANKS

The underclassmen section would like to extend thanks to all those who helped us organize the pictures the day before Christmas vacation, especially Mike Crowley, Beth Savage, Jessie Mason, and Wendy Rich. We would not have survived without you guys, thanks!

Mike Molineaux watches in amusement as Mike Dewey accosts yet another innocent girl, Lisa Tulipani, but Senior Jen Winslow can well sympathize with her plight.

Caroline Cassavoy and Andrea Duggin quickly practice the latest dance steps before moving onto the dance floor at the 1992 Freshmen Semi.

Taking a breather between classes Raehael Frederick attempts to organize her locker and combat her sudden feeling of claustrophobia.

Jamie Foley successfully remains frozen when told to, although Rob Wadlen sheepishly cracks up while attempting to do the same.

Tara Cargill, Johanna Tighe, Amy Dolan, Wendy Schreiber, Stephanie Milano and Kim Daley model their fancy dresses as proof that with the right clothes and a few balloons the school cafeteria really can be a great place for the Semi.

Michelle Scarmozza is ready for anything as she waits with her pen poised for something to happen.

Andy Burnham tries to contain his excitement in class, but must grip his chair to keep from being blown away by his history lesson.

The enthusiasm with which Sasha Veneziano speaks when describing his band Suburban Tribe is so contagious that even before hearing this local up-and-coming group play, one is certain that this is a truly gifted band with a promising future. Although the band has been around for a few years, periodically changing members, the current combination of Sasha on drums, Bryan Bourque (93) on guitar, and Jay Cammerata (92) as singer has recently made in-roads into the local musical scene, expanding their arena to include a larger audience, playing at clubs like Edible Rex and Rock Pile. The group has also made a demo tape of a few of their original songs for radio station promos and public sales.

Sasha, who has never taken a music lesson in his life, has nevertheless played the drums for four years. And in spite of the fact that he cannot read music, he has been a vital member of Suburban Tribe for over a year. As drummer, it is not only his responsibility to play, but also to write the drum beat to a song in its formative stages. But this group has no reservations when it comes to change. Without any warning "it [a song] could change at any time. Everything could change and [become] totally a mutation of what the original project was." Most of their songs are their own, with titles like "Jealousy Reigns", "Drop", and "Washed Away", but sometimes they take songs from the radio and create their own version.

The music that Suburban Tribe plays is never confined to any one category, because, as Sasha says, "Classifying your music is just the worst thing you can do," because it limits the band's possibilities. When pressed, however, Sasha conceded,

"We don't sound anything like U2," (although U2 is his favorite band). Suburban Tribe, because of its amorphous sound, can appeal to anyone and the band has been playing to increasing numbers at their shows, which are advertised in Harvard Square and on the radio.

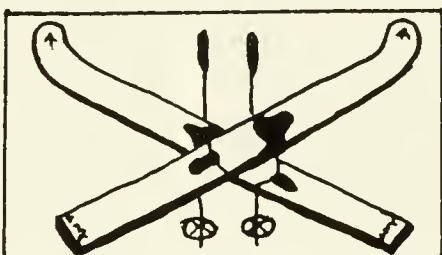

Sasha's interest in music extends beyond the immediate future and he would like to continue in a band after high school—perhaps even take Suburban Tribe into the professional arena. But Sasha is a realist as he is talented; he's doing well in school and maintains a serious interest in photography in case drumming for a living is not possible.

The band practices on a weekly basis, and though Sasha's electric bills tend to be a little high because they practice at his house, the performances make it worth the effort. "It's a weird feeling being the entertainer rather than the one being entertained, [but] the best thing is when . . . people who are seeing us for the first time come up to us and say they like us. That is a great feeling."

While most kids still tottered around on unsteady legs, Jessica Mason whoosed her way through childhood on skis. She started at the age of three and immediately fell in love with the sport. In the beginning Jess skied simply for fun. As she advanced she experimented with racing for a short period and has now worked up to double black diamond trails, which are about the most difficult to ski.

After skiing for fun for ten years,

Jessy decided to turn her love and knowledge of skiing into something more practical—a job. For over two years Jessy has traveled to the snow-covered, kid-crowded New Hampshire mountains nearly every winter weekend to teach three to five year olds the same things she learned at the age. Of course, she's found it's not always easy, especially when the kids don't want lessons or are accident-prone (she did almost lose a kid down the mountain once).

But the benefits derived from her job far outweigh these minor hassles. She can spend all her free time on the slopes practicing her own skiing—and the discounts on lift tickets can't be beat!

Sasha gets comfortable amongst his instruments displaying his many-faceted interest in music.

Left: Sasha and his drum set spend a lot of time together, resulting in a close bond between the two of them.

Way Below: Jessy, and Sinelair, her cello, work together to produce just the right notes for a beautiful sound.

Despite her impressive stature of '2", Jessica Lynch is not, in fact, a basketball player, although that may be the first thing that comes to mind upon seeing her. Before five minutes have passed, it becomes obvious that Jessy is in the musical arena, playing the cello. Everything about Jessy suggests her musical ability, from her volatile, unpredictable temperament to her confirmed non-conformity and of course to her intense passion towards music.

Jessy's desire to play an instrument was instilled in the third grade when she decided she was meant to play the violin. She wisely changed her mind, however, when her father threatened to make her practice in the garage, if she took the violin; therefore, she elected to take up the cello instead. She didn't mind, though, partly because she "thought it was cool [that she] go to lug this really huge thing around."

Little did Jessy realize that she would end up lugging that "huge" thing around so frequently. For in eighth grade, Jessy's music started to become a major part of her life as she became more serious and advanced. People started to truly appreciate her talent, and she was accepted to the Junior Districts Orchestra. There has been no stopping her since.

After two years with the Jr. Districts, Jessy graduated to the Senior Districts where she currently holds first chair - as head of the cello section. Jessy is also a member of the Greater Boston Youth Orchestra (GBSO), and practices with the Symphony and Chamber Orchestras every Sunday. In addition, Jessy has played in the All State Orchestra for the past two years, holds second chair in the Melrose Symphony Orchestra, and, of course, is the head of the cello section of our own MHS Orchestra.

Jessy also has a musical life outside of these orchestras. She made her solo debut last year playing "Kol Nidre", and has played professionally at several weddings. But perhaps the most exciting experience for Jessy was last summer, which she spent at Eastman School of Music, at the University of Rochester, NY. Surrounded by people who shared her passion for music, the atmosphere of daily classes and constant practicing helped to further Jessy's talent and determination.

Jessy spends much of her day practicing, often staying up to the wee hours of the morning, which, she comments sarcastically, "My parents love." Often, she rises at 5:00 AM to fit in a one-hour rehearsal. She has a weekly lesson at the New England Conservatory of Music, and orchestra rehearsals as well as homework.

All in all, Jessy does not have much free time, but when she has the opportunity to indulge in leisure activities, she gladly seizes it. As a proclaimed vegetarian, Jessy loves animals, and enjoys working with them. Although classical music is her favorite, and cellist Yo-Yo Ma is, to her, the epitome of greatness, she is also a huge fan of the alternative group They Might Be Giants. She has taken piano lessons and has a secret desire to play the steel drums - a far cry from classical music. And, of course, she likes to spend time with her friends whenever they can tear her away from her music.

Jessica's ideal career after college is to become a soloist or a member of an orchestra, although she says "money is not an object, as long as I'm playing." Because she knows she is not alone in having their dreams, she is not afraid of working for them or having to wait for her time in the spotlight. But judging from her talent and determination, she won't have to wait long.

For Every Generation There Is A GAPP

The GAPP Rap

Well, here's a little story we've got to tell, about the GAPP Program you know so well.
It started way back in history with Frau Frank-Cords, the kids, and the diggy diggy Dr. D.
So we got together to say this rap,
it's about a group, we call ourselves GAPP.
We are some kids that are elite, put us together and we can't be beat.
So we'll say "bye" on this night,
it was well worth the long-houred flight.
From Melrose to Hamburg, we had a great time and along the way we made it rhyme.
So on this night, in mid-May there's just a few things that we have to say.
Now GAPP's the greatest without a doubt,
and that's just why we're bursting out.
Well, it's too bad that we have to go,
but we're gonna end it with a show.
So break it down for me fellas,
it's time to get loose.
We're saying goodbye-or maybe just Tschuss.

The German American Partnership Program (GAPP) is a foreign exchange program between the students of Melrose High and the students of Gymnasium Oberalster in Hamburg, Germany. Twenty students from MHS journeyed to Hamburg in April of 92' for a month. While experiencing German culture first hand, the students attended school, went on field trips, and hung out with the Germans.

Many a night was spent learning about the European teen scene. The Wunderlampe and the DabKrug were the favorite spots of the Americans, not to mention the AEZ (the mall), where they spent most of their time sampling Bratwurst, German chocolate, and of course, Spaghetti Ice Cream.

Although the field trips to Berlin, Schwerin, the Hamburg Art Gallery, and the Gross-markt were educational and entertaining, the American students enjoyed learning about regular German life the most. "I liked just hanging out with everyone and meeting people," said one student of her trip. Obviously these students learned the importance of culture the right way- first hand, not out of a book.

Well, here we are. We are at the close of our yearbook and high school experience. During our high school years, each of us endured the difficulty of growing up. We travelled the lonely voyage from innocence to experience, from immaturity to maturity.

As freshman, we were very aware adolescents seeking an identity. Most of us wore our caps the same way, stressing our youthful search for experience and desire to "fit in."

As sophomores, not yet prepared for an adult role in society, we began to establish different or larger groups of friends, and some of us turned our caps backwards, thus asserting our own individuality.

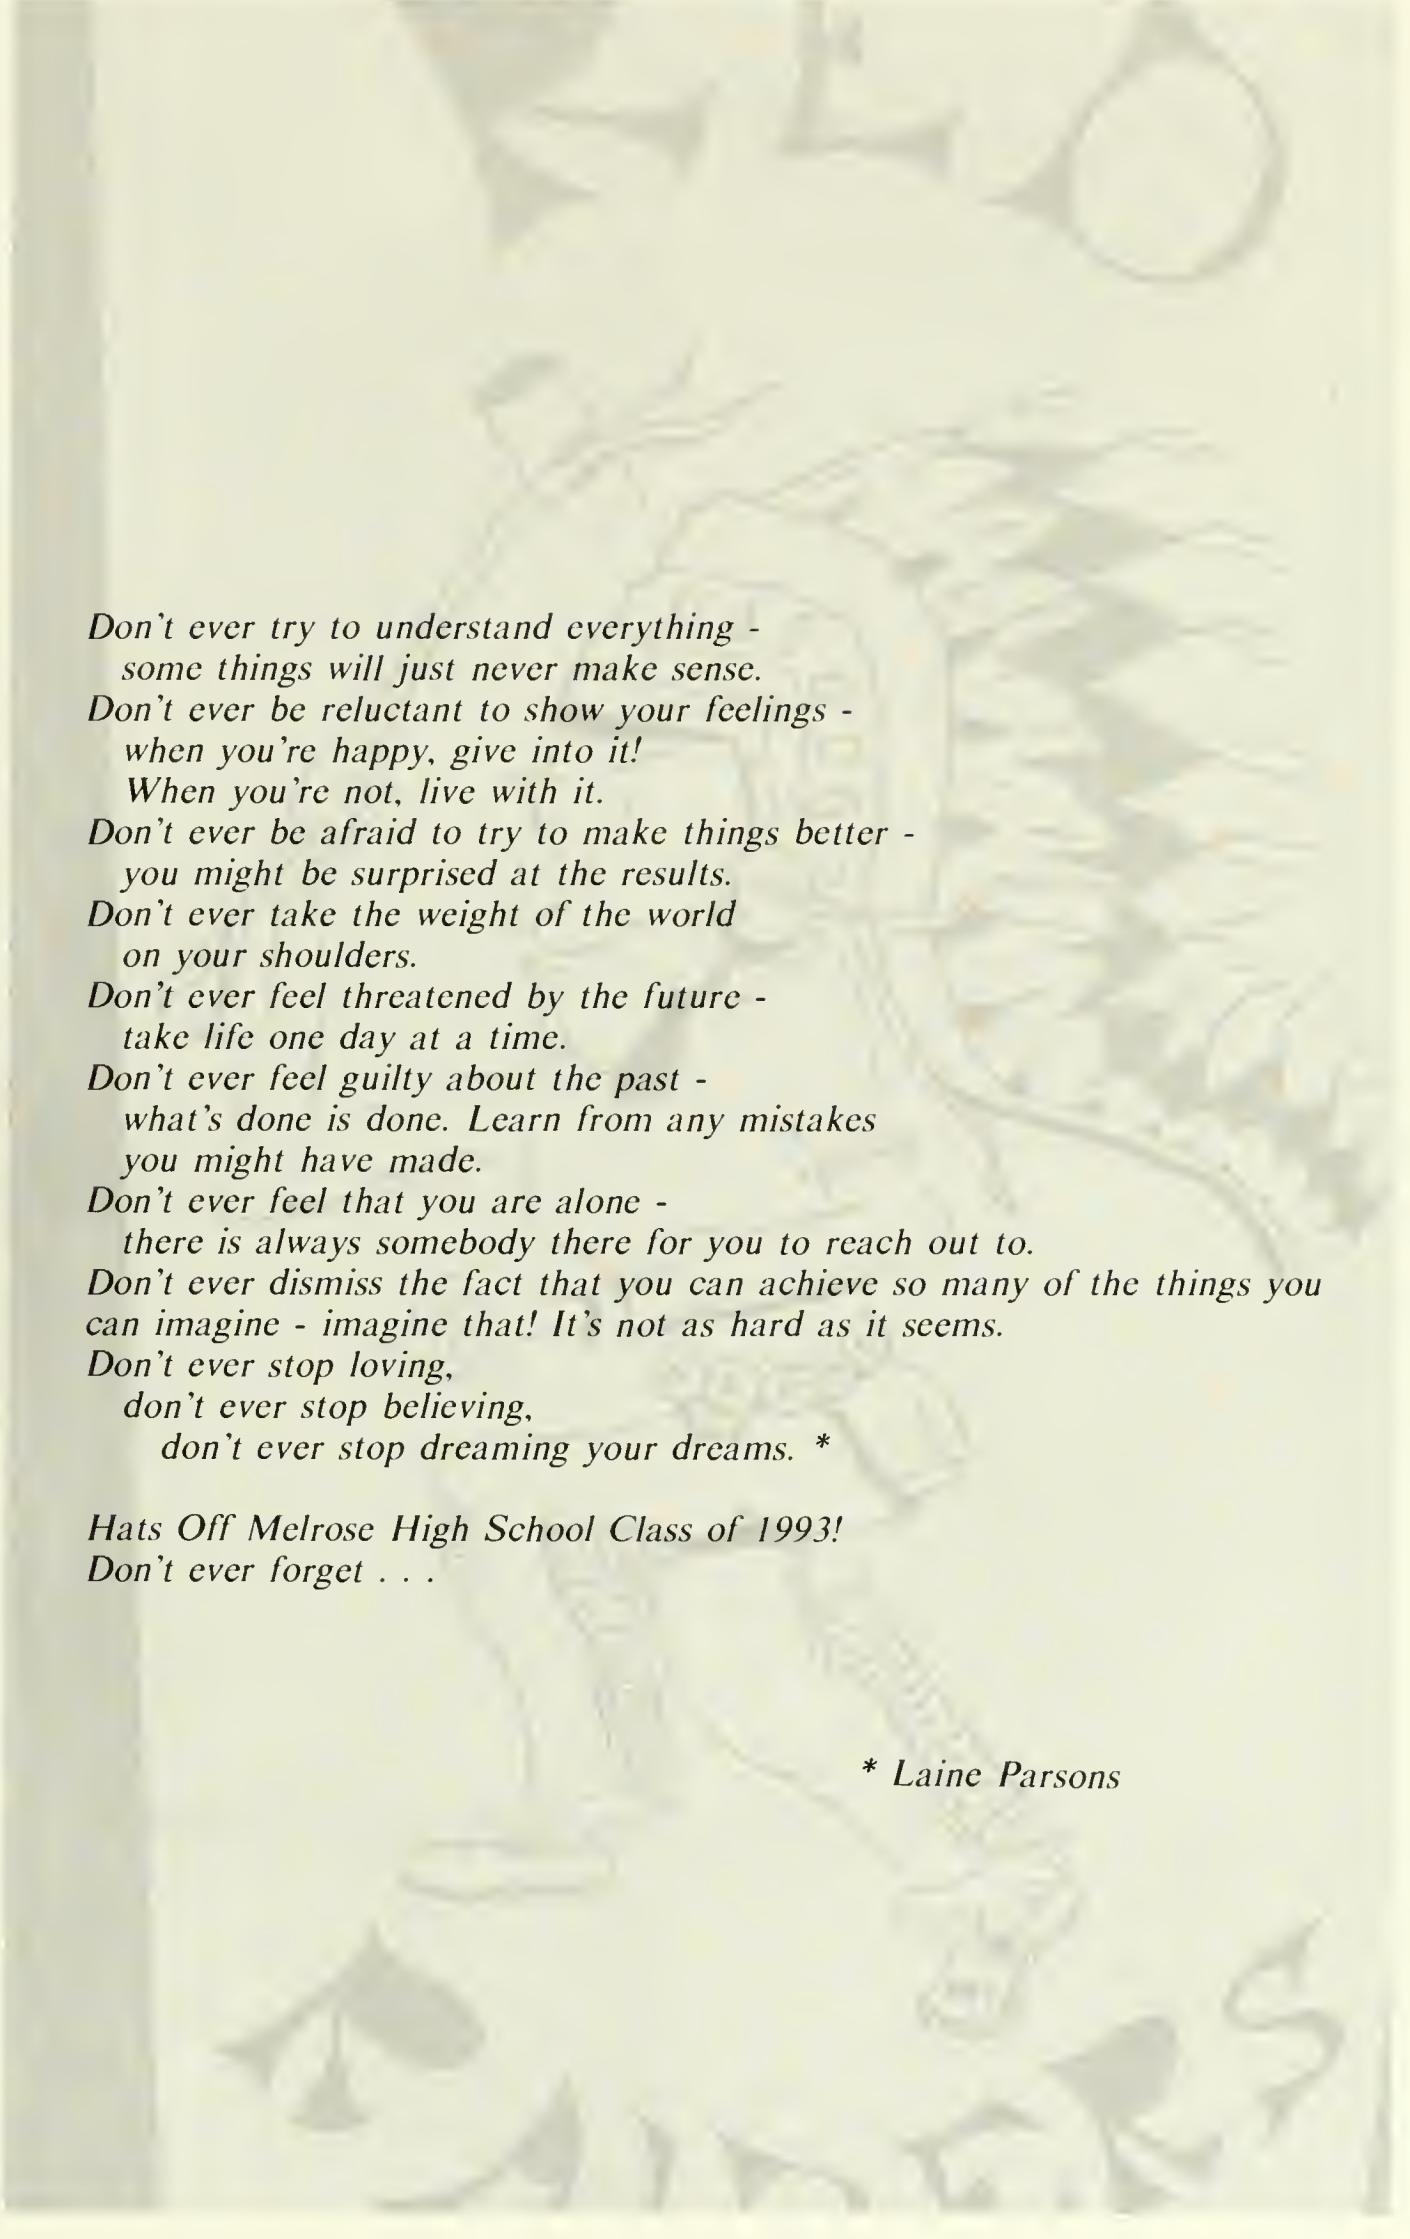

As juniors, we applied ourselves in areas such as sports and organizations. We began to develop interests in things and making impressions upon others. At this time, most of us were wearing the cap that suited us best.

Now, in our senior year, we have completed most of the journey from innocence to knowledge, from self-ignorance to self-awareness, from rootlessness to involvement. Since we can never experience our high school years again, each step of the journey should be savored, for before us lies an empty rack to be filled, the next phase of our lives. Our old pile of hats will be used to launch us into whatever endeavor we undertake in the future and to make our dreams come true.

In the future, this yearbook will serve as the link to our past. It will ignite some memories that will allow us to relive the activities of our high school years. We will be able to remember the teacher, coach, or friend who has a meaningful effect upon our lives, and especially, we will be able to remember J. Michael Hughes.

And now a few more words to remember . . . . .

Don't ever try to understand everything - some things will just never make sense.
Don't ever be reluctant to show your feelings - when you're happy, give into it!
When you're not, live with it.
Don't ever be afraid to try to make things better - you might be surprised at the results.
*Don't ever take the weight of the world
on your shoulders.*
*Don't ever feel threatened by the future -
take life one day at a time.*
Don't ever feel guilty about the past - what's done is done. Learn from any mistakes you might have made.
Don't ever feel that you are alone - there is always somebody there for you to reach out to.
Don't ever dismiss the fact that you can achieve so many of the things you can imagine - imagine that! It's not as hard as it seems.
*Don't ever stop loving,
don't ever stop believing,
don't ever stop dreaming your dreams. **

*Hats Off Melrose High School Class of 1993!
Don't ever forget . . .*

\ Laine Parsons*

ADS

The words and the pictures on this page and on the pages before have no voice, no image, and no audience without the slogans and the faces on the pages which follow. The following advertisements allow for the many frames, both large and small, which hold the memories of years past.

The Business Editors began their thorough campaign in late August with the first fleet of letters which permeated the vicinal business community. The campaign then extended into student group pictures, which permitted seniors to pose with their friends. Much to our surprise, the undulating mob of three hundred students who had their group pictures taken one Thursday morning late in October of 1992 finally produced the pictures in the pages which follow.

To all the graduates and the students who waited that morning, and to all the businesses whose advertisements dignify the following pages, the entire Yearbook Staff thanks you for your lucrative support. Thanks for

You road I enter upon and look around, I believe you are not all that is here,
I believe that much unseen is also here.

I think whatever I shall meet on the road I shall like, and whoever beholds me shall like me,
I think whoever I see must be happy.

Going where I list my own master total and absolute,
Listening to others, considering well what they say,
Pausing, searching, receiving, contemplating,
Gently, but with undeniable will, divesting myself of the holds that would hold me.

I inhale great draughts of space,
The east and the west are mine, and the north and the south are mine

It's Log Time!

Top: Underclassman Co-Editor Maureen Sheehan, the flower girl, is calm and serene on the green.

Let's say you are an editor. You could grab the staffers by the shirt and tell them how to lay out a page. What would you say? Or, as a logger, you could pick up one of those croppers and oh-so-mighty grease pencils and shape a picture any way you wish. Similarly, you could grab a pen and write whatever deepest thoughts or wildest ideas enter your mind. We loggers create a book documenting your times and events. Despite the deadline crunches and the Friday night and occasional Saturday morning meetings, the completion of the yearbook of 1993 is the most rewarding and powerful experience.

Left: Taking a tennis break from the layout and color workshops are M. Sheehan, N. Solano, E. Joyce, J. Chadsey, R. Pescatore, T. DiBlasi and K. Durant. Diagonal left: Writing down some numbers in his log (get ready Wall Street) is Business Co-Editor Jason Somerville. Upper left: This is Mr. DiSanto, the adviser-in-training. Did you find the prophecies? Top right: (left) Tenley and Ryan Hart and (right) Nick and Andy DiSanto gave their moral support and company to the log staff at many meetings. Above: One Saturday morning, Tenley Hart was the only one in a good mood. She smiled for the camera while T. DiBlasi, K. Bleiler, A. Casey, E. Joyce, K. Burns and M. Jendrysik ignored it and kept on typing.

I wish to thank the following people who contributed their time, effort and feeling to make the 1993 yearbook a success. First, to the admirable, responsible and personable head adviser, Mr. Gary Hart, who has contacts, contacts, and contacts; the dedicated Mr. DiSanto who allowed "the wild night of tag", the MHS administration and teachers of editors who have had their classes interrupted time and again; Superintendent Dr. David Driscoll who wrote a letter to the Class of 1993; the custodial staff who kept an "open door policy" for Log members; Matt Gianatassio who gave the staff some basketballs to play wall-ball; Guidance for their help; Mrs. Carol Taurisi for the use of the school van; Mrs. Katz for the run of the Resource Center; Mr. Lane and Mrs. Hurley for the sports scoreboards; Mr. Terry Bleiler, our photographer; Mr. Tom Keeley, our Jostens' rep.; Mrs. Linda Nolf, our inside rep. at the Jostens plant; Mrs. Mary Burns who let us use the computers; Tenley and Ryan Hart and Nick and Andy DiSanto who did a great job typing the profiles; Mrs. Hart who sent the baby pictures, let us steal her family for meetings and her husband for a three day vacation over the summer; Taco Bell who graciously supplied the Log with napkins and straws, and finally, all the editors and staffs for their superb accomplishments. Good luck to all and another warm thank you for a rewarding year.

Tipping my hat sincerely,
Kerri Todisco
Editor-In-Chief
